

process monitoring

Recording data on equipment condition and process parameters using sensors, recording devices, meters, etc. to determine process operational conditions to facilitate identification of deviations from normal operation.