

mastic

Tar-like (asphalt or bituminous) material used to establish a watertight seal between parts of a device or component, such as between a septic tank and access riser, between riser sections or between the tank and lid.