

deflection

Any change in the inside diameter of piping resulting from installation and imposed loads; deflection may be either vertical or horizontal and is usually reported as a percentage of the base (undeflected) inside piping diameter.