

in-line filter

Device installed as a part of the piping in a system, operated under pressure and designed to remove suspended solids from wastewater.