

event counter

Device used to record the number of times a component or device has been activated or deactivated (e.g., pump activation is one event and pump deactivation is a second event).