

filter

Device that removes constituents through processes such as sieving, stagnation, adsorption, or absorption; a filter has both area and depth with respect to flow; see also screen.