

cycle counter

Device used to record the number of times a component or device has been activated (e.g., activation of a pump followed by deactivation is one cycle).