

composite sample

Commingled individual samples collected from the same point at different times; samples may be of equal volume or may be proportional to the flow at time of sampling.