

control panel

Component that contains electrical devices that provide information on system operation and may allow adjustment of settings for operation of electrical devices.