

integrated treatment and dispersal

System in which treatment components are installed directly into the soil treatment area, so that both treatment and dispersal processes occur in a single location.