

fragipan

Dense, brittle, usually acid subsoil horizon which limits the movement of water, air, and roots; extreme density and compactness is not a result of high clay content but of a dense soil fabric arrangement and/or cementation by various chemical constituents.