

straight pipe

Conduit used to convey wastewater either directly from the source or following septic tank pretreatment to the land surface or a water body; term that often indicates an illegal discharge without treatment.