

transpiration

process by which plants release water vapor to the air.