

passive aeration

Process of introducing air into a treatment component or process without mechanical means; see also aeration, active.