

floc

Collection of smaller particles agglomerated into larger particles as a result of chemical, physical, or biological treatment; the larger particles can be more readily settled or filtered out of the effluent; see flocculation.