

alteration

Modification of a wastewater treatment system on the basis of: an increase in the volume of permitted flow; a change in the nature of permitted influent; a change from the planning materials approved by the permitting authority; a change in construction; or an increase, lengthening, or expansion of the treatment or dispersal system.